

Pine City, Minn
August 20, 1925

Hugh Fullerton
247 Park Ave, N.Y.

Dear Mr Fullerton =

Answering yours of 10th, which I have just read on returning home, regarding most interesting living American woman with colorful career, etc., will say that Mrs. Frances Folsom Cleveland Preston holds this place to me in the wonderful galaxy of our native womanhood. The wife of the first democratic president after the Civil war when politics was vitriolic, and just out of girlhood herself, she made no blunder, social or political, no word of hers embarrassed Mr Cleveland or his party. Sincerely Madison she was the incomparable mistress of the White House, through political defeat in '88 and triumph in '92 she kept the house and even tenor of true nobility. Her experiences in two administrations would be a thrilling story of the friends of Yesterday.

The relations of the Clevelands and Wilsons at Princeton, if divulged, would make a racy chapter.

Then, too, she has reared a family, and to womanhood has added the higher title of motherhood, the cum laude degree of domestic life.

She is of the type of women that made America and that alone can save it from every peril and for all time.

Very Truly

J. Allen Bede

to the the stand of the friends of the relations of the Church to William at the time of his death might very often There, too, the one who and to whom he had added the figure of the great scholar of the late days of his life 26th of the year of his the male human and the can be of great value for all times
Very truly
Yours
John G. ...